

Richard Wright Architects

www.rwrightarchitects.com

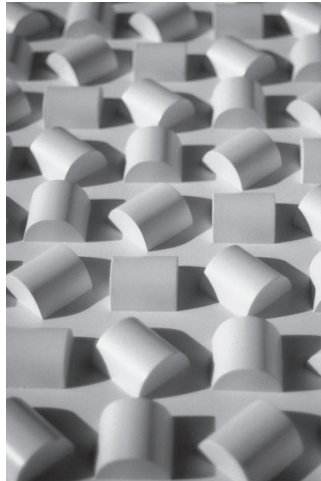

Light defines subtlety of form too, as in the barrel vault roof of this house model.

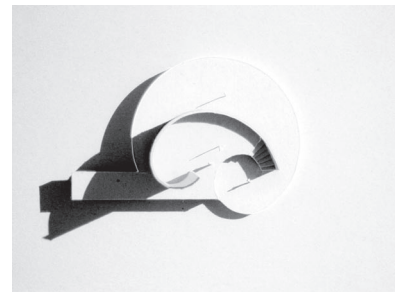

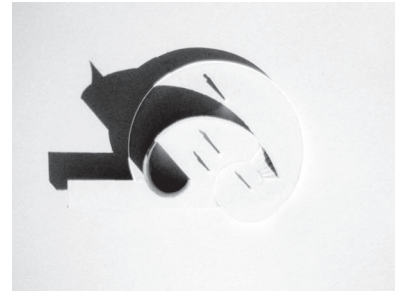

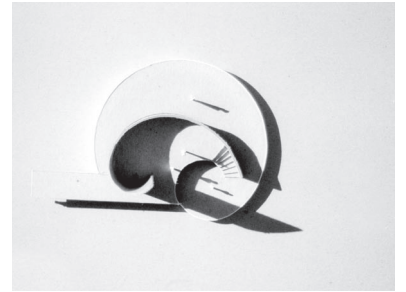

Light, shadow, pattern and texture... all embodied in a simple fence.

No trick photography here, just a chance encounter with sunlight playing on a tree against a window screen, casting shadows which create transparent view ports.

Surface texture on a corporate lobby door dramatizes the sunrise.

The same model under different lighting conditions; shadows as an integral part of the form.

Light & Shadows - 3

Find illustrated on this page a few explorations, study models, architectural components, and discovered events where the shadow play was instructive and exhilarating. Sometimes we just stop and say "wow, that's amazing".